FREEDOM FROM FEAR

FREEDOM OF OLEMNLY SWEAR

THAT I WILL BEAR TRUE FAITH AND ALLEGIANCE TO THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA; THAT I WILL SERVE THEM HONESTLY AND FAITHFULLY AGAINST ALL THEIR ENEMIES WHOMSOEVER; AND THAT I WILL OBEY THE ORDERS OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES, AND THE ORDERS OF THE OFFICERS APPOINTED OVER ME, ACCORDING TO THE RULES AND ARTICLES OF WAR.
DEDICATION

This year, with a bit of selfish pride, we dedicate the yearbook to the Army Specialized Training Unit and the Navy V-12 (S) Unit of the Medical College of Virginia. It is our sincere belief that from these organizations will come the men who, through diligent service in their chosen fields, will do much to end this world conflict and will rise to even greater heights in the peace that will follow.
FOREWORD

In every war since the War Between The States, The Medical College of Virginia has sent its sons and daughters forth on to the field of battle to minister to the sick and wounded. This war is no exception, for already a multitude of M. C. V. graduates are scattered throughout the far-flung battle fronts, doing well the important task assigned to them.

Therefore, our theme is of necessity one of a military nature, and in the ensuing pages we have attempted to present to each of you a picture of yourself as you prepare yourself for the day when you will become an active part of this world conflict.
In June, 1943, the United States Army called to active duty the students of the Medical College of Virginia who were at that time second lieutenants in the Medical Administrative Corps. These students resigned these commissions, and entered the service as privates, first class, in the newest branch of the Army, the Army Specialized Training Corps.
The Organization here was designated as the 3313th Service Unit with Colonel Paul L. Freeman in command. Later Colonel Freeman was replaced by Major J. M. Dixon, who is now commandant.

The program includes, beyond the academic schedule, military lectures, drill formations, military movies, and instruction in certain phases of the Army such as chemical warfare, etc.

Upon graduation the members of the unit are commissioned first lieutenants in the Medical or Dental Corps.
The Navy V-12 (S) Unit was organized at the Medical College at about the same time as the Army unit and follows much the same plan in its administration. The members of the unit formerly held commissions as ensigns in the Naval Reserve, but when called to active duty, they resigned their commissions to become apprentice seamen. However, a midshipman type of uniform is worn instead of the conventional blouse and bell-bottom trousers.
The unit is under the direct command of Lieutenant J. H. Neville, while lectures to the upper classes are given by Lt. Commander George Williams.

The plan of training is much the same as that of the Army, with lectures, movies, and drill formations constituting the major part of the military program.

Upon graduation the members of this unit are commissioned Lieutenants (jg) in the Naval Reserve.

IV. FEATURES
Rising majestically into the skies, the hospital of the Medical College of Virginia offers a refuge for the sick of all races, creeds, and religions, for here all men, whether rich or poor, are treated with equal kindness and skill until their return to health.
The four schools—Medicine, Dentistry, Pharmacy, and Nursing—though functioning as separate units, are united in the common task that falls to all who seek to cure the ills of man.

Both here at the Medical College of Virginia and in the life that will follow, it is the duty of each member of these great professions to give the best that is in him with malice toward no member of a brother profession, for only with perfect unity can the great task be accomplished.
By general agreement, winning the peace may be as difficult and prolonged as winning the present war. One of the important factors in a constructive peace undoubtedly will be better international understanding, not merely on the part of the government but as much on the part of every citizen; that means you and me.

Just how is better international understanding to be achieved? Certainly it will not come of itself; the past negates that definitely. Prejudice, lack of knowledge, lack of sympathy, and just plain indifference must give way to alert interest in other peoples, based upon sound knowledge of their cultures, economic problems, and relations to other peoples. To achieve this end means work. A large mass of high class published material now appearing, much of which is available in our library, perhaps constitutes the simplest, most effective substitute for living and working in the various countries abroad. If the latter were possible, many of us would revise our notions and outlooks. However, the printed page will have to be relied upon by most of us for new attitudes and new understandings toward other nations. I highly commend this method as a means of perfecting in the younger generation a more promising type of global citizen. Even enlightened self-interest depends upon this.

To a fine teacher and a renowned clinician, we, the School of Medicine, respectfully dedicate this section of the yearbook.
Seniors medica Class Histoary.

Another year is over, and six months earlier than we expected we are graduating in medicine, most of us somewhat eerie of the responsibility slapping us in the face.

It seems such a short time ago that our class assembled as Freshmen to be told of the long, hard struggle ahead. First came the attempt to master Gray's Anatomy, watching the saddened face of a patient instructor when the blood supply to a cartilage be given.

That year we proudly watched the opening of the new hospital, whose floors our tired feet have covered many times since. This first year dismissed seventy-some sleepy, worried people for a vacation. The months passed quickly, and we entered our Sophomore year, being prewarned by our learned predecessors that its mastery was almost humanly impossible. The midnight oil did burn, but not reluctantly, for we knew that this was the foundation for our clinical medicine. We experimented and experimented on dogs, rabbits, and ourselves. Our third finger looked like a sieve following clinical pathology, and our esophagus took a beating with a levis tube in physiology. We lived through it all and were granted a month's vacation.

Returning, we entered our Junior year with pep, vim and vigor, to start, (at long last, clinical medicine. This was a pleasant change, but we found something new to fuss about (which always made our class more satisfied)—we were becoming Class A technicians. Our fusing was to no avail so we watched the Seniors deliver the outside babies in the small hours.

Here the Army marched in, and after a week's vacation we suddenly found ourselves Seniors in Medicine. Not long after this most of our class either became soldiers or sailors. Our last year allowed more freedom in diagnosing and treating our patients. Now we look back and find the course hasn't been long at all, but find our responsibility a reality now and not something to be thought about and cast aside. There is a feeling of uncertainty to the future, but we know that the knowledge gained is needed more now than ever before. Our class has one of the greatest incentives for which to strive—our country's health and safety.

THEY BUT DESCEND TO RISE AGAIN

Just what are your thoughts when the flag comes down,
Along with the evening sun?
Do you wear a smile or is there a frown
When you hear the evening gun?

Do you think of the tasks that took your best,
Of the hours you marched in the cold?
Are you thinking of the time of promised rest?
Are you thankful the day grows old?

Does it just mean relief from tiring work?
Are you glad it's the end of day?
Do thoughts of duty and hardship still lurk
In your mind as the bandsmen play?

Of what do I think when the flag comes down
And I hear the evening gun?
My thoughts are serene, my face doesn't frown
At the hour of the setting sun.

Sometimes I'm weary, but never distressed,
Sometimes I may shiver with cold.
I think not of these as I face the west
At the hour when the day grows old.

There's but one thing then I can think about,
And that's why my face wears no frown.
What I'm thinking? I'm sure beyond all doubt!
Neither sun nor my flag will stay down.

JUNIOR MEDICAL CLASS HISTORY

Just two short years ago we entered these halls of learning, but for the maze of material covered, the long hours of work and worry, it seems almost an eternity, but our little eternity has had its moments of sunshine and of moonlight, too. Our Freshman year was filled to the brim—we tried to unravel heart muscles; we followed association fibers from one convolution to another; we weighed and titrated; we stained and examined; and we became Sophomores.

Upperclassmen! Yes, sir, those shiny stethoscopes added mightily to our dignity, but to find the vagus nerve in a turtle—well, sometimes we had atypical turtles, didn’t we? Then came Pharmacology—bow tie and Mister ............... while we women snuggled comfortably down in our seats and enjoyed another “free show.” The year ended abruptly in April, and we became Juniors.

Those first clinic days were hectic. We “considered carefully” which instrument to use, and after much deliberation went out for a drink of water. A big job, this examining an ear. Then came the first baby, “our baby,” we said, for of course the Senior didn’t count. The days at Camp Lee—each day the last day—stole most of our spring vacation. It was a great vacation, those days of K. P., guard duty, drilling, typhoid shots, but the uniforms and the checks helped some.

And so we enter our last mile, and may success smile upon us. We are proud of the profession we have chosen, and may she have reason to be proud of us.

Because of some guy named Shicklegruber, in a manner to which we were not accustomed, we started this memorable year on the fifth of April, but that was not the most unusual event. After our week of vacation in June we came back to find more than twenty per cent of our class absent—all on K. P. at Camp Lee. We wonder if they employed the aseptic methods used in our surrounding hash houses. Anyway, a reading period of two days was observed so that we remaining students wouldn’t get too far ahead (meaning catch up a little bit).

Yes, the Army in its khaki moved in very conspicuously, but the Navy used a little more subtle approach. In fact, the navy uniforms weren’t issued until September, but as the old saying goes, “money talks,” and that’s how we knew the Navy was there all the time. We were mighty proud of being Sophomores, but instead of wearing signs to that effect we just stuck our stethoscope in some conspicuous spot and let it hang out a little—preferably a foot or two.

Since we knew all about how a body ticked after our “finishing” course with Dr. Main, we proceeded to find out what made it stop ticking, and, of course, how it looked, felt, and sounded when it threatened to slow down a notch. Some of our industrious (or less anemic) classmates pushed the Sophomores through a rather successful softball season, giving us second place in the league.

Of course, we learned all those little things that all Sophomores should know, the most important of all was knowing just where to look up the answer to anything on a moment’s notice.

We learned:

1. that migraine isn’t a pill.
2. that L. O. A. isn’t a fraternity.
3. that Pfc’s don’t give the Colonel orders.
4. that people die at their own convenience, and don’t care when students are called to autopsies.
5. that “thrill” has several definitions, but students prefer the one not in the book.
6. that “Otoolek” is three perfectly good words.

And now with this host of information, we shout in unison, “On to the clinic!!!!”

MEDICINE
Seventy-seven men and two women were spun off the wheel of fortune onto the doorstep of the Medical College of Virginia on April 5, 1943. The wheel had picked them up from farms, villages, little towns, and big towns, all the way from Puerto Rico to Honolulu.

Doctors Ingersoll, Negus, Anderson, and Osterud discovered the foundlings and decided thereupon to start an uplifting movement and make the group into the Freshman Medical Class. What a job our teachers have cut out for themselves. On the other hand, how these teachers have cut out jobs for their proteges. They keep a flow of work running to the hands and minds of their new class that has a parallel only in the flow of “Old Man River.” No one doubts that the teachers are determined to make medicos of the class or break their traces trying.

With the faculty putting forth their full energy, Uncle Sam stepped in with a plan to make officers and gentlemen (don’t laugh) of some members of our class—and he may do it. He spent two weeks fingerprinting them, teaching them to scrub, and inoculating them. Some he put in navy uniforms, others in army uniforms, but in each pocket he placed fifty dollars, with fifty more to come every month, and sent them back to the faculty for a continuation of the flow of medical knowledge.

Thus ends the history of the Freshman Class. How many will be doctors? How many will be officers and gentlemen? Quien sabe! The wheel of fortune spins.

To a fine teacher whose kindness, interest, and skill have done much to aid the struggling student, the School of Dentistry expresses its appreciation.
SENIOR DENTAL CLASS HISTORY

We, the Class of 1943, have much to look back on during our stay at the School of Dentistry. During our years here we have gathered a multitude of memories which we shall cherish forever.

Our Freshman year was a maze of cadavers and carving, Bacteriology and Bio, and all the other subjects that go to make the life of a Freshman interesting but so confusing. It took weeks to adjust ourselves to our new surroundings and associates, but time flew, as it has a habit of doing, and soon we found ourselves in the Sophomore Class.

The Sophomore year, and there we probably find our most vivid memories, for there we tried our hand for the first time at Operative, we suffered the casting failures of Crown and Bridge; combine these with Pharmacology, Physiology, and Pathology, and you have a vague idea of how happy we were the day that we entered our Junior year.

The Junior year gave us our first introduction as servants to the public, and vice versa, for at last we came in contact with real live patients—and an experience it was. That first restoration, injection, and extraction held a mixed emotion of horror and joy, but soon we overcame the worst of it and began to feel that we were, after all this time, approaching our goal, for now we were rendering a service to mankind, and after all, that was our prime purpose of studying dentistry.

Finally we became Seniors, and with final instructions in the chosen art, we are embarking on our dental career. Most of us are entering the Army or Navy there to practice what the faculty has taught us during our brief stay here. To those who enter the service and to those who stay behind, the task is equally important.

JUNIOR DENTAL CLASS HISTORY

As we held our rendezvous that zero hour in April, each man of our little group thanked heaven for being there, for our class had been so diminished that it resembled a cholera bacillus in the throes of dissolution. Days later we donned our spodless white clinic coats and sneaked into the clinic for the first time. Our first lesson came in learning the proper way to apply a rubber dam and the correct procedure to use in doing a prophylaxis to prevent the patient from looking as if a gingivectomy had been performed.

Figuring that we could do less harm to patients with no teeth, we got early starts in denture construction, soon learning that the hot compound can be pretty messy in a human mouth. What a difference from the tin models of freshman days! Operative gave us its share of scares when we were faced with our first patient, complete with rampant caries. It is so amazing that one can spend an entire afternoon preparing a cavity in the enamel.

Exodontia with its forceps and needles held a great scare for some of us, and on our first procaine injection we were all living examples of the principle of the automatic hammer. The Out Patient Clinic was a revelation, and after our first day there we no longer ponder over the question of where the school obtained its supply of cadavers.

In June the Army and Navy stepped in, and we donned uniforms. The school took on a strictly G. I. manner, and we soon learned to drill on the field as well as in the mouth.

So with just a taste of what to expect in the dental profession, we look forward to our Senior year, hoping there to find the answers to so many things in dentistry that have made us such a puzzled lot of Juniors.

JUNIORS
Hunter Holmes McGuire against an MCV background
A year gone by—too many experiences to tell—and a little wiser even if doubtful. These were probably the thoughts of every member of the Sophomore Dental Class as we started our second year at the Medical College of Virginia, but the school was taking a fuller meaning each day, and with this assurance we were ready.

After months of waiting for action on the part of the Army and Navy, we were excited to hear that we would soon be in uniform. Those men in our class who held Army commissions resigned them and reported at Camp Lee on June 19th to begin life as Army privates. The days spent at Camp Lee will never be forgotten, and all will agree that Richmond was a beautiful sight to those newly clothed, newly shod, and newly inoculated men who stepped from the troop train that memorable day in June. The Navy was a little slower in organizing their program, but soon “as you were,” “muster,” and a host of other military terms became commonplace to the students here. We were changed, and we liked it.

Time passed slowly sometimes and quickly sometimes. It all depended on how the work was going. Work—there was plenty of it with drills, lectures, and inspections added for good measure.

Now as this second year ends we add new experiences to our old ones and consider ourselves some little bit wiser for it all. Trying to forget any doubt which we might harbor in our minds, we anticipate with excitement all which the future holds.

Our class entered school almost as any normal class has done for years before; the only noticeable difference being that we were starting about four months early in an accelerated program that was introduced the previous year. However, it was not long before a number of unusual events took place that made it hard to anticipate what might happen next.

Many members of the class were in the Army or Navy reserve, and were expecting to be called to active duty as students in one of the government programs. On June 19th, 1943, the Army boys were called to Camp Lee for a few days of processing and fitting (?) of G. I. clothes, and an introduction to Army life—from K. P. to Corporal Smith’s detail. However, our enthusiasm was somewhat dampened on our return to find that the amount of money alloted for the program was not sufficient to accommodate us, and we were to be discharged from the Army. A second notice stating that we were going to be in the program after all brought sighs of relief from all.

After numerous trips to the University of Richmond for fittings, the Navy students finally came forth in all their glory in their attractive uniforms.

After the thrill of being in military life died down, we set about trying to make up some of the work that had been lost while we were being processed. Soon the military classes became a part of our regular schedule, and Saturday afternoons, once spent in leisure, were now spent by the Army students on the drill field.

All in all, the year has left us all with many good memories. We hope that the complications that have arisen with this first Freshman Class under the new government programs will be ironed out, and that our class may continue, to finish the job that we have begun.

SENIOR PHARMACY CLASS HISTORY

September, 1940—Fifty-four Freshmen entered the School of Pharmacy, Medical College of Virginia.

December 18, 1943—Two of these fifty-four, with seven who later joined their ranks, received their degrees in Pharmacy from the Medical College of Virginia.

The story behind these two news items teems with excitement, tension, and change. Freshman year ran smoothly with only a slight current of unrest and little evidence of what was to follow. Things began changing in the Fall of ’41 when we came back to find Dr. Hughes had left for active duty in the Navy at Washington. Mrs. Hughes’ assumption of his classes was a beginning of the trend toward the feminine for the class.

December 8, 1942—A quiz in the cat skeleton. Drawn faces, confused minds. How could we learn to number pussy’s vertebrae with radios on every side screaming the news of destruction of American lives and defenses? What shall we do? Can we serve mankind better by staying in school or should we join the armed forces? The dean comes by, laying a calming hand on the shoulder of a student, eager to enlist. “Stay here,” he advised, “We can only stand fast, living each day as it comes, and giving to it our best.”

Many of our boys felt it best to enlist and still others were denied deferments by their draft boards. Some joined reserve corps in the Army, Navy, or Air Corps, planning thus to finish their work and meanwhile be training to become officer candidates on their graduation. Before the session ended, Mr. Pitts, friend and advisor to all, was granted a captain’s commission in the Army and left for Camp Lee with the General Hospital 45 just after the Mortar and Pestle Club banquet. An extra chair was set at the speakers’ table at that banquet for young Master Tom D. Rowe, Jr., who was born in March of that year.

A class of about thirty began its Junior year in July, each hoping to graduate under the accelerated program before Uncle Sam needed his services. However, the number had fallen to twenty by March when the session closed. Dr. Trice left at the end of that term to join the Army and Mr. Tarrant to join the Navy. The school sustained another loss when Mr. Early left to practice pharmacy.

The feminine trend had become more pronounced as the boys in the reserves were called into active service during the vacation, and the Senior Session, leaving five girls and four boys as candidates for Bachelor of Science degrees in Pharmacy.

May the hardships endured and the denial of the usual pleasures of college life serve to strengthen us and give us to the public as great forces for all that is good and fine, and may Pharmacists, through our efforts, stand as a healing power of the world.

In April, 1943, we began our studies as Juniors. There were many things that seemed a little odd until we became accustomed to the change from Sophomores to Juniors. At this time there was no Freshman Class, and everyone was wondering how many students would enter M. C. V. in July. We also thought of the students of the past Sophomore year who had already gone and of the present Juniors who expected to leave before the end of the term. Although we realized the conditions at the time we knew that each new situation would be dealt with as it came before us.

We, as a class, continued our work together day by day. When we saw each other we talked and dreamed of the future. Things that affected Pharmacy and other questions were discussed throughout the session. The question arose of how many would be permitted to finish their course in Pharmacy. The question was answered at the beginning of the second quarter when our class was decreased to eight members.

Our interest in school was kept alive by the new and different things that we did. Dispensing offered us a thrill, and the promise of the day not too distant when we would be filling prescriptions for the sick.

Our Junior year is at an end. We have attended lectures, worked in the laboratories, had vacations and examinations. We have gained a knowledge, a number of friendships, and pleasant memories that will affect our entire lives. Our Senior work will begin soon, and then the great day will come when we will be capable of rendering our services to mankind.

SOPHOMORE PHARMACY
CLASS HISTORY

A little while ago we were Freshmen, and before the twinkling of an eye here we are Sophomores. The reason for this rapidity is that we are the first class who entered the school under the accelerated program, and having wandered through that maze of learning that we call our Freshman year we find ourselves “the wise fools” that someone intelligently dubbed Sophomores.

Now that our Sophomore year is closing, we find that trying to crowd such pleasant memories as ours into an accelerated program is a tough job, for with all the hard work, it has been most enjoyable. A lot has happened to our class in its short career. Many of the boys we came to know and love have been called or have volunteered for some branch of the armed forces. True, we miss them, but when we think of the sacrifices that they are making, it makes us feel proud to say that they were our friends.

All in all, even under the trying conditions of these times, our class is doing all in its power to have a normal college life, at the completion of which we will take our places whether it be in the world conflict or in the peace that will ultimately follow.

FRESHMAN PHARMACY
CLASS HISTORY

In the history of the Pharmacy School at the Medical College of Virginia, there has been none like ours, for our class has nine girls, a thing unheard of in these parts. The halls are gloomy no longer, for the feminine touch has been added.

Seriously, a large class came to M. C. V. in July prepared for hard work. As is to be expected, we were afraid for what the future would bring, but we were confident in our hearts that it would bring success. Due to the war, our activities have been few, but we shall never forget those that we have experienced such as the school picnic, and Kappa Psi and Phi Gamma parties. In our treasure box of memories, these shall be rare jewels.

Even now we are looking forward to the day in which we shall receive the reward for our efforts, for our four years' work. Maybe we feel insignificant now, but the thought sustains us that we shall soon be able to serve mankind, which, after all, is our prime motive.

Dean Rudd, Faculty, Members of the Pharmacy School, we wish to announce the arrival of a prospective intelligent (?) Sophomore Class.

SCHOOL OF NURSING
Senior Nursing Class History

September first, and we begin our last year as students at MCV. We've traveled a long stretch, but the end is now in sight. The end of our student learning will be only the beginning of another long road for all, and as yet most of us aren't certain in which direction we will be traveling. However, whether we choose the service of our country in the armed forces or whether we decide on home-front nursing, we feel that we will be prepared.

With the long awaited ceremony of receiving our black bands we assumed the title of Seniors, and along with the title goes a certain amount of dignity. However, with the coming of the Cadet Nursing Corps we have to push ahead and crowd in our special services along with the worry of early state boards.

We are anxiously awaiting the time when we will have completed our courses and we will become registered nurses, yet we dread in a way for the time to come for it will put an end to our days as students. Most of them have been the happiest days of our lives and have brought us more than we can realize at the present. So with the fond memories of pleasant days spent here at MCV, we look forward into the future and feel ready for whatever task awaits us.

Students of the School of Dietetics are graduates, with a major in foods and nutrition or institutional management, from a college or university of recognized rank and meet the requirements of active membership in the American Dietetic Association. After a twelve months' training course here they are recognized as Dietitians by the American Dietetic Association.
Applicants for the School of Technicians must be graduates of an accredited high school and have attended a college or university accredited by the Regional Professional College Associations. The course here at Medical College of Virginia consists of an eighteen month period in which the students have practical training in the various laboratories of the hospitals. On successful completion of the course these students are given a certificate in Medical Technology and are eligible for admission into the Registry of Medical Technologists.
From the fraternities here at the Medical College of Virginia comes the fellowship that binds closer together the members of a chosen profession, for only through constant association and comradeship with his fellows does a man ever derive the best out of life.

It is true that we will gain the inevitable triumph in our present conflict but only through the unity and fraternal spirit that has its beginning in organizations such as those found on our campus.

The students here at MCV are offered a host of activities—government, publications, athletics, Y. M. C. A., Dames Club, and Alumni Association—and with the opening of the new Student Union Building even more extra-curricular functions will be available for the students.

From these activities the student draws a world of benefit, for they provide a welcome diversion from the long hours of studying.
ACTIVITIES
The purposes of the Student Government as set forth in the constitution are as follows:

1. The promotion of college activities.

2. The promotion among the students of the Medical College of Virginia of a more brotherly feeling for each other and a greater love for the college.

3. The settlement of all affairs which concerns the best interests of the Student Body.

4. The attainment of those things that go to make the college greater in every way.

This year, as in previous years, the Student Government has tried to proceed according to the principles on which it was founded. We have not been unaffected by the changes brought about by the present world conflict. This year has seen many of the students in uniform under the Army and Navy Programs. We appreciate the fact that we have been allowed to continue our professional education and realize the responsibilities which this entails. The Student Body has responded well in undertaking the extra work of the accelerated program.

The committee formed last year to better student-faculty relationships has continued to function and increase in importance. The Student Government has taken an active interest in plans for the Student Union and sincerely hopes that the plans formulated this year for the Student Union will materialize.

The officers of the Student Government wish to take this opportunity to thank all of those who have given their cooperation during the present year and to tender best wishes to incoming officers.

To edit this annual under the trying conditions that exist was a great task, but without the coordinated efforts of the staff and the Student Body, it would have been an impossibility.

Here in these pages, fewer this year due to the shortage of materials, we have tried to picture for you the Medical College of Virginia as it is today. The war has come close to us with the installation of the Army and Navy programs and the loss of faculty members to the armed forces, so it is only natural that this yearbook should present a military theme.

To those members of the graduating classes who are entering the armed forces, and to the others who will stay at home to undertake equally important duties, we offer our efforts in the hope that sometime in the future this book may be a written reminder of pleasant experiences at the Medical College of Virginia.

The editorship of the Skull and Bones fell to three persons this year, a thing somewhat heretofore unorthodox. However, the war has taken its toll among all persons. As the last "official" editor it was indeed a great pleasure to present our interpretation of the news to the Student Body.

The staff, small and limited, did its best to show no partiality in reporting happenings around the school. Many were the times that no news seemed evident just before the deadline, but somehow we never failed to go to press and deliver on time.

For myself, I would like to thank the staff for their splendid cooperation, and on behalf of the entire staff, I wish to thank the entire Student Body for helping us put out the Skull and Bones.

The Medicos ended one of their best seasons on record with a total of four wins and two losses. Due to transportation difficulties and the abolishing of athletics in many schools, the schedule only included six games, but in these six encounters the “Docs” showed all the makings of a fine ball club.

Intramural softball held great interest at MCV this year, with the competition keen and the fight for the pennant close. The Junior Meds finally came out in possession of the championship with the Psi Omegas in second place.

Junior Medical Class - Softball Champs
Tennis came into its own again at the Medical College of Virginia this year after an absence of several years. The schedule of the Medico netmen was limited but the boys gave a good account of themselves in all matches to close a very successful season.

The team was under the management of Paul Pollard, who became Richmond's singles champion, and the team boasts of victories over University of Richmond and Randolph-Macon, with the only loss of the season being to the strong Hermitage Club Team.

The central Y. M. C. A. of Richmond maintains a branch here at M. C. V. under the direction of Mr. Jonah Larrick. Its aim is to present to the student the opportunity to enjoy a well-rounded life in which moral, mental, and physical welfare of the student is especially considered.

"Father" Larrick and the officers of the Y. M. C. A. stand ready at all times to offer their services whenever or wherever they might be needed by a student.
This year, and every year thereafter, until this conflict has terminated, the graduates of this institution will be serving their country in whatever capacity they are best qualified and in whatever part of the world there is need for relieving the suffering of fighting men.

However, all will not enter the armed forces, and to those who are left at home to care for the civilian population, the task is an endless one. Whether at home or with the armed forces, there is the need of each person carrying out his task to the best of his ability so that when the horrors of war have passed and the victory is won, the postwar world will be a better one because you have done your job well.
The Dames Club is an organization of the wives of the students at M.C.V. This chapter is a member of the National Association of University Dames and was established in 1938. It is primarily a social club to promote friendship among the wives of the students.

IN APPRECIATION

Outside of the staff members who worked diligently to edit this book there are others who deserve a vote of thanks for their services.

There is Mr. Ford, of Virginia Engraving, who supplied a lot of the brainstorms and all the art work for the book. Out Baughman Printing way are Mr. Dunn and Mr. Wright who worked the maze of copy into this book.

Mr. Booth, the photographer who took the pictures for the division pages, helped loads; as did Mr. "Fat" McIntyre, of Merin Balliban; and Mr. Freydeck, our school photographer.

Mrs. Hoke, President Sanger’s secretary, kept us informed on the Faculty; Mrs. Hancock, of the Dental Clinic, did a swell job as messenger for the members of the staff; and Mrs. Simpson, of the Alumni Office, kept us informed on those who have graduated.

Special thanks are due the Richmond Newspapers, Inc., who were kind enough to allow us to use some of their pictures.

Lastly, we wish to thank Mr. Sanders, of the book store, for helping in the big job of delivering the books.

There are loads of others, too numerous to mention, without whom this book would never have been a reality.

RICHMOND, VIRGINIA
"That this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom!"

As Americans, we are proud of the fact that we are a freedom-loving people. Our aim as a nation, in this mighty conflict, is to strive to improve human welfare, with freedom and justice for all. It is a freedom which makes every American thrill to call his country "home." It is a freedom without which life ceases to be worth living—and it is a freedom worth fighting for. America has had to fight many times to maintain those rights which we won more than 150 years ago. And since that eventful day, Old Glory has been a symbol, to the freedom-loving people of the world, of liberty, independence, and freedom. One of the most democratic things about the freedom-loving, independent-minded people of America is the institution of life insurance. Through life insurance, men have guaranteed that their families shall enjoy freedom from want and freedom from fear; and that they, too, may be assured of financial independence in the sunset years of life.

Hi, there!

“Yep, that’s me . . . your Virginia Dairy Route Man, ridin’ high, wide and handsome along the Milky Way! Although I’m not without my share of wartime worries, I’m taking pride in doing my part of the war effort . . . delivering nature’s most nearly perfect food to thousands of Richmond’s doorsteps!

’Course there’s no need for me to be tellin’ you about the virtues and the values of milk. Your job is health, and you know that milk is a great big part of getting that job done. But during wartime, too, we must all be concerned with getting the most out of the milk we buy . . . with using it judiciously . . . it is too important a food to be wasted.

One other thing I hope you’ll bear with me about. The wartime problems of deliveries, collections, manpower shortages, and such aren’t easy. But I’ll keep on doing my best to give perfect service . . . and be seein’ you along the Milky Way!”

A CAPITAL IDEA . . .

In most instances the medical practitioner cannot leave his family an established business as a source of livelihood. Only through the accumulation of income-producing capital can he project his earning power into the future for the benefit of those dependent upon him.

No plan as yet devised for creating income-producing capital can serve him so quickly and so surely as life insurance.

COMPLIMENTS OF A FRIEND
"IS THIS PRODUCT COUNCIL ACCEPTED?"

This is the first question many physicians ask the detail man, when a new product is presented.

If the detail man answers, "No," the doctor saves time by saying, "Come around again when the Council accepts your product."

If the detail man answers, "Yes," the doctor knows that the composition of the product has been carefully verified, and that members of the Council have scrutinized the label, weighed the evidence, checked the claims, and agreed that the product merits the confidence of the physician. The doctor can ask his own questions, and make his own decision about using the product, but not only has he saved himself a vast amount of time but he has derived the benefit of a fearless, expert, fact-finding body whose sole purpose is to protect him and his patient.

No one physician, even if he were qualified, could afford to devote so much time and study to every new product. His Council renders this service for him, freely. Nowhere else in the world is there a group that performs the functions so ably served by the Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry and the Council on Foods.

Mead Johnson & Company cooperates with both Councils, not because we have to but because we want to. Our detail men can always answer: "Yes, this Mead Product is Council-Accepted."

The manpower shortage is a problem with us, too. In order to meet the unusually heavy demands being made on our services every man in our organization is putting forth on EXTRA effort these days... truly, each is doing the work of two.

And when we are forced to disappoint those who favor us with their orders we regret it deeply because their confidence in our craftsmanship is a source of great pride to us. You can be certain such confidence will not be forgotten in the days to come.
